RECOMMENDATION FOR ERIC CURTIS

I am happy to recommend Eric Curtis for a teaching position. Eric was a student in my class, Teaching Literature to Adolescents, in the fall of 1998. The class requires a good deal of reading and writing and provides many opportunities for small and large group discussion. Eric was a particularly able participant in those discussions, offering perceptions and asking questions that always seemed to pull our talk in promising new directions. He is a strong reader and writer, a confident and mature student; he is, moreover, very sensitive and skilled in personal relations--a quality I saw several times in his small group work. In short, I think Eric will become an excellent teacher, and I am happy to recommend him.

Sincerely,

James Marshall, Professor
English and English Education
